FEEDING THE MASAII DURING COVID-19

Maasai people – nomadic pastoralists who live along the Great Rift Valley – are particularly affected by food insecurity. For several months of the year the semi-arid and arid lands they occupy face acute water shortages for domestic and livestock use. Many families in Olmaa have been very much affected by the corona virus outbreak. This has led to a more food scarcity and many have been left to starve. Bridges of hope and empowerment believes that every life matters and has taken the initiative to be part of the solution by donating food and masks to the Maasai people.

COMMUNITY AWARENESS

Creating awareness among the youth and women

Despite global scientific data showing that Covid-19 is a deadly new strain of coronavirus, which has killed almost 1,700,000 people, if you publicly declare in Kenya that you have the virus then you are in danger of being castigated as a liar desperate for attention or a government stooge.

This denial has made the infections to escalate and therefore, public health awareness has been regarded very necessary. BOHEI has partnered with Kahawa west administration lead by the area chief Mr. Kimani and other health officials to sensitize the community about to need to be careful. BOHEI team and the other officials have been organizing forums and making rounds house to house creating awareness.

Bridges Of Hope and Empowerment Remains at fore front in fighting the spread of Corona virus.
